All Alister wanted to do was track down his missing mother. The last thing he expected was to get on the wrong side of cyber-militants, end up as the Secret Services most wanted, and top the death list of a ruthless private army. And that's just day one! Truth is, being on the run from a bunch of secret agents, mercenaries and hackers is the least of his problems. The nanoparticles in his system are messing with his brain chemistry and driving an addiction to dangerously crazy stunts when things get tough. It looks like his journey across Europe and over to Toronto is going to be pretty scary; not to mention the little matter of an urban war zone to get through if he does make it in one piece.
